

U. S. TRANSPORT SAILS FOR SOUTH

800 Marines, Full Crew and Tons of Ammunition Are on Board.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—With 800 marines and a full crew on board, the transport Prarie left the Philadelphia navy yard today for southern waters. The transport carried stores and ammunition for a three months' cruise. The marines are commanded by Col. A. R. Lejeune. The colonel and officials of the Philadelphia navy yard said before the Prarie sailed that the orders received named Pensacola, Fla., as the objective point. It was rumored at the navy yard, however, that these might be changed by wireless telegraph from Washington after the Prarie passed out to sea.

The holiday feeling prevailed at the navy yard today and marines and some of the crew of the Prarie played football before the transport sailed.

HAS WANDERLUST.

Eleven-Months-Old Boy Falls 75 Feet, Breaks Leg and Chuckles at Janitor.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Wanderlust possessed the 11-months old son of Paul Melver, so he climbed through a window of his parents' apartments to see what was outside. He fell 75 feet before he found anything. Then he struck a grass plot and incidentally fractured a bone in one of his legs. Mrs. Melver swooned. Paul chuckled at the janitor who picked him up.

ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Miss Frances Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Bates, who came home from the Chapin school at Northampton, Mass., to pass Thanksgiving with her parents, gave a party on Thursday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Ellen Goehring of Boston, formerly of Tye. About twenty were present and the time was pleasantly passed with "live hundred." Refreshments were served by the hostess. It was a late hour when the guests took their departure for home, after a most enjoyable evening.

REBEL FORCES PLAN ATTACK

Villa's Forces of 12,000 Troops Will Advance on Chihuahua Tonight for Concerted Attack on Federal Stronghold

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 27.—Rebel Scouts reported to General Francisco Villa at Juarez tonight that during the day they had sighted federal outposts at Villa Ahumada, 83 miles south of Juarez. The presence of the federal forces at Villa Ahumada has caused no little concern in Juarez.

"I will leave to attack Chihuahua just as soon as I can get my train loaded with my provisions and my troops, which will probably be tomorrow night or Saturday morning," said General Villa at Juarez.

Villa expects to have at least 12,000 men, when he attacks Chihuahua. He said tonight he had sent word for General Thomas Urbina to bring 8000 men north from the Tuxcon district and that General Manuel Chan is now in the vicinity of Chihuahua, with 2000 rebel troops. Villa will take 7000 soldiers from Juarez, leaving a garrison of about 500 men to protect the city.

In Juarez tonight General Villa continued preparations to move against Chihuahua City, which even now may be in possession of the constitution.

JOY RIDE ENDS IN A CRASH

Two Women Hurt.—One of the Machines Blows Up After Accident

A Thanksgiving day joy-ride indulged in by Harold Hodgdon, a young man at Sanbornville, started all kinds of trouble for himself and a half dozen others. He took an automobile belonging to Reed Lang of that town without permission and was just finishing the ride when he smashed into another machine from Dover containing three women and three men. Two of the women were badly injured and required the services of Doctors Craft and Davis before they could be removed to their home. Both machines were more or less wrecked; but the trouble did not end here. The machine which Hodgdon was operating ran against a fence, and a crowd gathered to look over the wreck. Somebody lit a cigarette and carelessly threw the lighted match on the machine. The gasoline took fire and in an instant, which was a grand finale in the auto blew up with a loud explosion, holiday joy-ride.

PROSECUTION FOR CONSPIRACY

Wireless 'Phone Officers on Trial—Government to Call 100 Witnesses.

New York, Nov. 27.—Granville T. Ivory, the first of more than 100 witnesses from all parts of the country, called by the government to testify in the trial of James Dunlop Smith, Samuel E. Darby, Lee De Forest and Elmer E. Burlingame, charged with conspiracy to defraud investors in wireless telephone stock, was examined yesterday in the federal court.

In his opening statement to the jury the prosecutor declared that when it was announced that battleships were equipped with the radio wireless telephones, the stock of the Radio Telephone Company, of which Smith was president, jumped from $10 to $20 a share, and later when the navy department, after giving the apparatus a trial discarded them, the company continued to represent that it was doing a successful business and went on paying dividends of 12 per cent, out of money derived from the sale of treasury stock.

MORE MEN ARE WORKING AT YARD

Official Figures Show 946 at Present Employed Against 938 Last Year.

The Herald, as every reader knows, is an optimist as to the future of Portsmouth and the Portsmouth navy yard. It never shouts hard times—but instead tries to impart good feeling. A few days ago it stated that the force employed at the navy yard today was larger than it was a year ago, and today, through the courtesy of officials, it gives the official figures of the skilled and unskilled force.

In 1912 there were 933 and today, Nov. 28, 1913, 946 mechanics are employed. The number is exclusive of those under the civil service.

What we want is to retain that number and bring back those now on furlough.

F. F. GRANT WILL HAVE CHARGE

Promoted to General Agent With Supervision Over Electric Road—Other Appointments to Become Effective Dec 1.

A circular announcing several changes in the official staff of the Boston & Maine railroad was issued on Thursday over the signature of J. D. Tyler, general superintendent, and John Houke, superintendent of the Portland division. The appointments carry a promotion for Station Agent F. F. Grant and William E. Dowdell of the Portsmouth Electric Street railway which are well deserved and generally pleasing to the friends and acquaintances of both. Mr. Grant now carries the title of general agent at Portsmouth, with jurisdiction over all the steam railroad employees and property. His additional duties put him at the head of the Portsmouth Electric lines in which he succeeds P. P. Postgate, recently appointed assistant superintendent of the Southern division of the Boston & Maine.

Mr. Dowdell, who has for several years been connected with the Electric railway, as foreman of the car barn in charge of general repairs, etc., has been moved up to the position of general inspector. He will have supervision over all employees of the street railway and be in direct charge of all matters pertaining to the operation of the road under the direction of Mr. Grant.

Mr. J. L. Shaw, trainmaster, with office at Boston, having jurisdiction over the Portland division, will report directly to the superintendent.

Mr. A. P. Milliken, trainmaster, with office at Boston, having charge of traffic movements and correspondence pertaining thereto, under the direction of the trainmaster's office in Boston.

Mr. E. D. Moroy, trainmaster, with office at Salem, Mass., having supervision over the Eastern route main line and the following branches: Saugus, Swampscott, Marblehead, Lawrence, So. Reading, Gloucester, Amesbury and Essex, as well as the York Harbor and French railroad, under the direction of the trainmaster's office at Boston.

Mr. A. S. Twombly, trainmaster, with office at Dover, N. H., having supervision over the Western route main line, including the following branches: Medford, Georgetown, Lowell, Manchester and Lawrence, Merrimack, Laconia, Somersworth, Kennebunkport, Conway, Wolfeboro, Dover and Old Orchard, under the direction of the trainmaster's office at Boston.

Mr. E. Barker, passenger crew dispatcher, with office at Boston, under the direction of the trainmaster's office at Boston.

Mr. B. Sykes, assistant passenger crew dispatcher, under the direction of Mr. Barker.

General Agent Grant has given nearly a quarter of a century to railroad life and is one of the best known and most capable employees of the company. Twenty-four years ago this month he was appointed agent at Amesbury where he remained but a short time and thence came to this city, where he has been a most indefatigable worker in the interest of the company.

It is reported that William Sanborn, a former assistant superintendent at Sanbornville, will be assigned here under General Agent Grant and will have charge of the company's freight business at this station. The report cannot as yet be confirmed by any of the officials here and no orders of such nature have been posted.

TWO ROBBED WHILE ASLEEP

$123 Taken by Thief in Deer Street House.—$73 From Under a Pillow

Louis Angelo and Chloebert Giovanni, two inmates of the boarding house of Michael Fargola at No. 28 Deer street, woke up this morning with just $123 missing. The money, it appears, was lifted during the night and the thief is credited with a bold piece of work. From the report made to the police eight or ten men were sleeping in one room and why one or the other did not detect the movements of the thief is hard to explain. Angelo, before retiring, placed his money under the pillow of his bed, from where it was taken with as much ease as if he had placed it on a bureau.

The money of the other man was taken from his pocketbook in his coat and the empty purse put back in the coat. There was a lively scene at the house when the robbery was discovered. Several people who it was thought might be connected with the job were brought in by the police but none of the stolen money was discovered and they all denied any knowledge of the stealing. Later during the day the police got a line on something that is likely to end with an arrest and the early disappearance of certain parties is being investigated.

FOUND THIEF UNDER HIS BED-HAD ROBBED HIM OF $53

Jesse Williams, colored, was arrested on Thursday evening from the 1138 Pullman, for breaking, and entering and larceny.

Williams was employed about the hotel Kearsarge and it is alleged that on Thursday evening he got into the room of Elvin Newton, the father of the proprietor of the hotel, and hid himself under the bed. Mr. Newton did not notice him when he returned, and he left his trousers with some over $50 in bills in the pocket, hanging over a chair beside the bed. Williams succeeded in pulling the trousers on the floor and took the money.

His movements, awakened Mr. Newton and he on investigating found Williams. He gave an excuse that he had come into the room to fix the heat. Mr. Newton not noticing that his trousers were gone, drove him out of the room. A few minutes later he discovered his trousers under the bed with pockets empty.

He promptly notified the office and the police were called. Williams was known to the police and officers Murphy and McCaffery were sent to the depot to watch the 11:30 train from Boston. Officer Murphy located Williams on the train, and when Williams saw him coming, he made a dash through the train with the officer after him, and the chase caused considerable excitement among the passengers. Officer Murphy finally landed his man just as he went through the door.

At the station he was searched and $53 in money was found on him.

Williams was indicted by the Grand Jury, for breaking and entering the house of Elvin Newton last summer. He made a great plea to the court that this was his first offense and that he would be good if given a chance. His case was continued for sentence and he was released.

IDEAL WEATHER FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving day was blessed by ideal weather, clear and crisp. The day was well observed here, for there were the usual large number of home gatherings and reunions.

There was the usual Union service of the churches, and the usual time devoted to sports. Two football games were played and at the Country Club there were many playing golf, while others took the day for hunting or fishing. A popular outdoor sport was putting on double windows and storm doors.

The principal event of course was the dinner and it was a happy occasion everywhere.

The Salvation Army with their usual generosity took care of a great many and the other charitable bodies had been busy for days looking after the worthy poor.

At the navy yard the dinner was made a big occasion. Hundreds of pounds of turkey were used and with all the fixings. This was so of the naval prison and prison ship Southern as well as the ships.

At the naval hospital the Chef created a reputation for himself by handling out the following menu:

Blue Points on Half Shell
Green Turtle Anglaise
Chicken de Volaille
Olives Radishes Sweet Gherkins
Pile of Turbot au Vin Blanc
Pommes Parisienne Salade Celestine
Prime Ribs of Beef, Dish Gravy
Vermont Turkey Cranberry Sauce
Punch Benedictine
Vol au Vent of Lobster, Narragansett
Peach Compote Bourgeois
Hubbard Squash Wax Beans
Mashed Potatoes
Baked Sweet Potatoes
English Plum Pudding, Brandy Sauce
Baked Indian Pudding, Ice Cream
Hot Mince Pie Pumpkin Pie
Ice Cream Wine Cake
Rougefort and Cream Cheese
Cocoa Elliot Elder Coffee
Nuts Candy Grapes Raisins
Cigars and Cigarettes.

At Fort Constitution the men sat down to a very fine turkey dinner with fixings and there were the usual fixings.

At the local jail Deputy Shaw remembered the prisoners with a very fine dinner and furnished a musical entertainment during the afternoon.

Time Had Expired and Officials Had Much Difficulty Locating Lost Cars.

It is seldom that one hears of the loss of an engine by the large railroads, which requires several hours' ardent effort by the various employees to ascertain its whereabouts but such a case says the Dover Democrat has been called to the attention of many.

It appears that the expeditious time of employment of a certain crew on the Boston & Maine railroad expired when the crew arrived at Jewett, and as they had made previous formal notification to the railroad officials of the anticipated predicament they did not hesitate to leave the engine and freight cars on a siding at Jewett. The railroad officials had not anticipated any such action at this point and when the information was forwarded that the train had not arrived at its destination a search was started immediately and for several hours the crew were kept humming in the effort to find the location of the train in question. After several hours the information came to the head of the engine house employees that engine 2036 was on a siding at Jewett. An investigation followed and it was soon learned that the crew had detached the caboose from their train and had it coupled to another train bound for Portland and the entire crew had gone to their original starting point at Portland. The expressions of the railroad officials when the truth of the situation was learned are not for publication.

Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, November 28, 1913.

Minding Your Own Business.

What the American people as a whole do not know about the ins and outs of the government differences with the Mexican dictator and his party would fill—let us speak within bounds—a small pamphlet, says the Salem News. Considerable talk has been heard about the Monroe doctrine—the alleged sacredness of which is now beginning to come in for belated questioning among elements in the population whose members lose nothing in intelligence and patriotism by comparison with any elements that may be mentioned.

Evidences are multiplying that many Americans are restive under the conditions which place the United States in the role of a nation that is sticking its finger into the internal concerns of countries on the Western continent. The notion that "Uncle Sam" must act the part of the guardian of order on this continent, and gratuitously meddle with the affairs of his neighbors on this side of the Atlantic, is repugnant to the sentiment of hosts of Americans. If civil wars must take place in this or that nation on the Western continent, humanists may applaud the act of the United States in jumping into the field, separating the contestants, and then dictating what government shall be recognized. But it is risky interference. Moreover, it is not unlikely to involve this country in all sorts of troubles. If the United States policy should take this form: Fight as you may among yourselves, give way to your savage outbursts, let dictators assassinate and set up rival governments, but respect both the lives and the property of citizens of the United States, for the killing of an American or the destruction of his property will call for indemnity, a failure to act to be followed by a seizure of the customs district. Suppose this "doctrine" were set up? It would be supported at home, where rank meddlesomeness or blundering policies by the state department would justly excite the contempt and opposition of the great American public.

A Merited Appointment.

The appointment of Flagg F. Grant as general station agent for the Boston & Maine railroad in this city with jurisdiction over the Portsmouth Electric road, is a merited one and very pleasing to his many friends. Mr. Grant has served the railroad as station agent for nearly a quarter of a century, the greater part of the time at the local station. Owing to the congested condition of the station and the railroad yard in this city, the duties of the station agent have been of an exacting nature, but Mr. Grant has worked early and late to keep things moving. That the railroad company has recognized his years of faithful toil and given him deserved promotion, is not only pleasing to Mr. Grant, but his many friends.

Has Lost Its Prestige.

There was a time when this city was the objective point for couples from Maine and Massachusetts who desired to be married with quickness and dispatch, and the city was frequently referred to as the Greta Green of New Hampshire. A few years ago a law was enacted requiring persons who intended getting married to file their marriage intentions at least five days in advance. Since the new law went into effect there has been a very large falling off, and at city hall, where marriages were of an almost daily occurrence, the appearance of a couple to have the knot tied would cause nearly as much surprise as an invasion by the Mexicans.

The Portsmouth newspapers now dispute that former Governor Frank W. Rollins originated the Old Home Week idea in 1899, and insist that the notion originated in Portsmouth way back in 1853, and was the idea of the late B. P. Shillaber and other sons of the old Strawberry Bank. The Portsmouth editors will next be trying to prove that Daniel Webster didn't write the dictionary.—Laconia Democrat.

Portsmouth people desire nothing that they are not justly entitled to. The inception of the Old Home Week idea took place right here in Portsmouth many years before Ex-Governor Rollins conceived the idea of reviving it. For the benefit of our esteemed contemporary we will say Daniel Webster, the noted lawyer, also made his home in this city for several years, of which fact we are also justly proud.

It is claimed that the Thanksgiving of yesterday was the costliest for the past quarter of a century. Thanksgiving is the New England holiday, and the people will observe it no matter if the turkey and fixings do come high.

Portsmouth people had something to be thankful for—that the third member of the police commission had been appointed after the long delay.

The football season can now be said to have come to an official end, for which many anxious parents have just cause to be thankful for.

Some of the local gossips never get time to take a vacation, owing to their volume of work.

The same dish today, only it is likely to be cold, instead of hot.

CUT IN NAVY ESTIMATES

Secretary Daniels Will Ask for $145,000,000 for the Next Fiscal Year.

Washington, Nov. 27.—Navy estimates Secretary Daniels has sent to the House appropriations committee ask Congress to vote $145,000,000 for the fiscal year. The estimate is $5,000,000 below last year, and yet proposes the building of two battleships at $15,000,000 each, eight torpedo boat destroyers and three submarines.

Many of the details of the estimates are along the line of the last naval appropriation bill. The House naval affairs committee contains large navy and small navy advocates. A battleship program was successful last session.

The naval affairs committee will meet next Tuesday to report favorably the naval militia pay bill and the bill for a council of national defense. Both bills were approved by the naval committee in the last Congress. Chairman Padgett will urge their passage in the House during the coming session.

The proposed council of national defense would be an advisory board in which the Secretaries of State, War and Navy, chairmen of military and naval affairs of both houses of Congress, the chief of staff of the army and certain high officers of the navy would be members. Its functions would be to report to Congress on legislation for military defense.

The militia pay bill is designed to put the naval militia on the same basis of relation to the navy as the national guard occupies to the army. It proposes an elaboration of the present naval militia by which the federal government would lend aid to the States by appropriations, loaning small ships and detailing naval officers.

AT THE SHUBERT

One of the most notable and novel productions of the last ten years is Percy Mackaye's new Oriental romance, "A Thousand Years Ago," which will be seen for the first time on any stage at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, next Monday evening. In striking contrast to the light plays of view which have characterized so many of the productions thus far, Mr. Mackaye's delightfully charming and wholesome fantasy brings back to the stage once more the romance which has been admirably lacking during the last decade.

Using the same Persian story of love and adventure which formed the basis of the "Turandot" of Gozzi in his Venetian production of 1802, and of the later "Turandot" of Schiller, produced in 1902 and of the still later production of the same title by Reinhardt two seasons ago in Berlin, "A Thousand Years Ago" makes a distinctly unique and original application of the ancient tale. In Mr. Mackaye's romance, Turandot, the beautiful princess of Pekin, is carried by Calaf, prince of Astrakhan. As in the case of other authors who have sought to win her hand, she sets for Calaf the task of answering three riddles which she propounds. Failing to reply correctly, Calaf must lose not only his hand but his head as well.

From this same Persian story, it will be recalled, Shakespeare drew the inspiration for the famous masked scene in "The Merchant of Venice." This same scene, also, were Gozzi and Schiller and Reinhardt indebted to. "A Thousand Years Ago," however, introduces into the Persian original an entirely new element, when it brings to the court of Pekin five strolling players from the theatre of Italy. The manager of these, Capucenino, is the leading figure of the romance. It is through his good offices that Turandot and Calaf find their love affair to a final happy conclusion. And when the Emperor would reward Capucenino and his players, the gallant leader of the masquers renounces the empire that is offered to him. He is the romantic to the last, lover of lovers and in love with love. He rejects a crown for a lover's withered rose, and goes

Character Reading

The best way to read a merchant's business character is by his advertisement. Just run over today's Herald and note the business news.

Don't the "ads" pretty well reflect the houses as you know them?

One note is appealing for one kind of trade, and another for another kind, and each one is directly or indirectly writing his own business character into his advertisements.

Mighty interesting study, these advertisements. Mighty good guide for you to go by.

But what kind of character is the merchant writing who is not advertising?

Oh, best not writing at all—best not writing at all—

CURRENT OPINION

Right to Strike Is the Life-blood of the Labor Movement.

The right to strike is the lifeblood of the labor movement, and to take it away would be to place union workmen in the same position as a country which would not wage war on another nation in order to enforce its rights.

Strikes, like wars between nations, cause terrible misery and privation, but labor cannot give up this weapon. Organized labor, like organized government, can conduct its fights better than unorganized rabble. There is a general opinion that trade unions are organized for the purpose of conducting strikes for higher wages and shorter hours.

This is not true. Virtually all the legislation tending to improve the condition of the worker has been the result of the concerted efforts of the trade unions.

The present public school system, excepting that in New England, was also the result of the labor movement.—William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor of the United States.

Interpretive music has been especially composed for the production by William Furst, who will direct the unguessed orchestra.

The engagement, beginning December 1st, is for two weeks only. Mrs. MacKaye herself will be present on this premier performance Monday night.

RAILROAD NOTES

B. S. Jones official photographer of the Boston & Maine road is making pictures of grade crossings that have been called to the attention of the public service commission as needing protection.

Work on the Grand Trunk Railway at Providence has been resumed after being abandoned several months ago. Threatened strike by station and telegraph operators of the Grand Trunk Railway has been avoided by granting wage increases amounting to $200,000 annually.

At the last meeting of Concord Lodge, No. 357, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the following officers were elected for the year 1914: J. W. Sullivan, president; C. W. Worthington, vice-president; R. C. Jewell, secretary; C. E. Hardy, treasurer; R. C. Worthington, agent official publication.

R. C. Jewell was elected chairman of grievance committee in place of J. J. Theobald who has served in that capacity for the past five years, but declined re-election on account of preoccupation with traveling conductor, the B. & M. railroad. Mr. Giguere's territory will comprise the southern division, part of Nashua and the Portsmouth branch to White River Junction and Claremont Junction.

BACK TO HIS FIRST LOVE.

To retire from the governorship of the second state in the Union and take up the duties of the National Baseball League, as is the intention of Governor Tener of Pennsylvania, will strike many as a remarkable transition; and so it is. Both positions are honorable, but baseball pays its executive more generously than do states. The governorship pays $10,000 a year, and the league presidency $20,000 or $25,000 with a long-term contract. So that financially the transition is upward, while in the case of Governor Tener it is a return to his first love in the business of earning a living on the shady side of Easy street. He was a good ball player in his youth; an efficient clerk and backer in his maturity; a faithful and zealous member of Congress; he has been energetic and progressive as governor of the Commonwealth, and now, in his prime, he will doubtless prove to be just what the National League needs and demands, a dignified, prudent and popular executive.

Under the arrangement Mr. Tener will participate only in a general way in league affairs during the remainder of his term as governor, which has nearly 14 months to run. The opportunity to take a congenial position outside of public life and politics having come to him unlooked for, upon terms and with expressions of confidence that are obviously flattering—and on conditions which will not necessarily divorce him from the private enterprises in which he is interested—it is not unnatural that he should have decided to accept a peerless so tempting. There will be regret throughout Pennsylvania that this course indicates abandonment of further ambition in the political field, if indeed Mr. Tener had cherished any such, but the governorship is a disillusioning post, with all its power and glamour, and there is about it much that is thankless. Hence by the time an incumbent approaches consideration of his career after his term shall have closed a proposition of the kind made to Governor Tener is alluring and not to be despised from any point of view.

RELATE BATTLE STORY

Soldiers today in Juarez today continued to tell stories of the two days' battle against the federals. Last Saturday night they say their first knowledge of the proposed federal attack was received and General Villa rushed his main body of troops south, spreading them in a half moon to guard all approaches to Juarez. There they stayed until Monday afternoon with only an occasional brush between skirmish parties.

Then came the federals, who from a distance, of about five miles, descended upon their field artillery and began the attack. Desultory firing continued until after dark when Villa with reinforcements attacked the main column of the federals. Here the fiercest battle of the revolution was fought in almost hand to hand conflict. The main body of rebels traversing a direct line to the south arrived at the designated point of meeting just a few minutes before the tank reinforcements appeared.

Hearing the sound of conflict the troops from left and right wing obeyed the adobe delatado, cry of their leaders and hastened into the fight. The cavalry was ordered to make flank charges upon the enemy, both left and right, and the infantry to the end of the main column, threw their weight into the scale of battle, and turned what might have been a federal victory into an utter rout.

Overwhelmed Federals

Outnumbered and overpowered the government troops withdrew in disorder, the rebels said, to their trains, which were hastily backed down the track. But closely pursued by cavalry from Villa's forces, one group of federals were unable to retreat before the enemy reached them, surrounded the train and made them prisoners. The heaviest loss of the entire battle was said to have occurred Monday night in the fighting at close range, when Jose Inez Salazar tried to penetrate the rebel line to the east of Juarez. Salazar led his forces until wounded seriously.

General Villa said that he did not intend to execute the federal prisoners whom he spared on the battlefield and brought to Juarez. They have been placed in jail with those taken in the Juarez battle and will be held until the close of hostilities in Mexico, and then will be pardoned.

KIDNAPPED BOY TURNS UP TRAMP

Runaway Forced to Admit Identity to Philadelphia Police.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—Israel Gordon, 14 years old, who was believed to have been kidnapped from his home in Dorchester, Mass., 19 months ago, admitted his identity to the police of this city today and confessed that he had run away from his home with a tramp known as "Saragoga Slim." THE DOCKING OF A LINER

The Difficulty of Bringing a Big Ocean Ship Alongside the Pier

If you are standing on the pier watching the big liner come in and waiting impatiently to greet friends you have on board you probably pay little attention to the practical side of warping the vessel in.

But those who witness the docking of liners day after day can afford to make a study of the operation. Of bringing the ship alongside, and to them it is generally of unending interest, especially if they are familiar with the ships and perhaps know the captains and officers.

On her last arrival at this port the Cunard liner Campania was moored to the pier in exactly 55 minutes from the time of leaving quarantine. But the Campania of course is a comparatively small liner and conditions had to be just right or she could not have made it in almost record time.

Ship Captains say that the ideal time to dock is at slack water, which turn and there is no current to push it to say that the tide is just on the against the ship and hinder a quick warping in. In the North river, where most of the big ships berth, there is sometimes a six mile current running, and when a huge liner gets stalled in this kind of tide the warring friends on their pier are in for a long session of fuming.

The liner France, has established a reputation for herself as a hard ship to dock. On a recent arrival she was at the pier for four hours before a swarm of tugs could get her alongside. The period of slack water is so short that it is seldom that the big ships make it just at that time.

The big liners always dock against the tide. That is to say if the tide is running upstream they warp in from the upper side of the ship; if downstream they are brought in from the lower side. The explanation of this rule is simple. If they were allowed to come against the pierhead with the tide there would be a crash which would knock a hole in the ship's side, to say nothing of damage to the pier and the captain's reputation.

When the ship reaches the pier the pilot's responsibilities are over and the captain takes charge on the bridge. A flag on the pier end has told him which pier he is going to occupy. Tugs in the river are waiting. The chief officer takes charge of the men manning the lines on the forecable head and the second officer looks after his stern lines.

Longshoremen in a small boat go fearlessly under the great ship's bows and a hand line falls into the water which they quickly take ashore. This line is made fast to one of the bays on the pier and soon hauling to the stringpiece. It is made fast and the chief officer orders his men to take in the slack on the steam capstan.

In the meantime the vessels now has been brought gently against the pierhead and many tugs are pulling away, trying to get her righted out to go into the slip. The captain superintends things from the bridge.

As she comes slowly in, to the joy of those waiting, for homecoming friends, the lines are lifted according to the orders of the chief officer, and the pier superintendent who is in charge on the stringpiece and wears as many brass buttons as any one being generally a full fledged captain. Further up the stringpiece go the gangs with the heavy hawsers, shifting them from bollard to bollard, and very soon the second officer is putting on his stern lines.

The hawser at the end of the ship is called the bow line, while the second line running up, is called a spring. A similar permanent mooring is effected at the stern, and when all is secure the skipper orders his quartermaster to give a blast of the whistle.—New York Sun.

FRED A. GRAY APPOINTED POLICE COMMISSIONER

Governor and Council Make Some Belated Appointments--Councillor Sawyer Goes On Superior Bench -- Manchester's Third Man is Appointed.

The long awaited appointment of the third member of the Manchester police commission was made Wednesday night when the governor and council appointed Frederick W. Shontell, the decision being given out shortly before midnight.

Mr. Shontell is a member of the brokerage firm of Shontell & Varley. He was born in Montpelier, Vt., and came to Manchester in 1876, and was connected with the Manchester Traction company for 15 years. He has been in business with Remsen Varley for the past four years.

Mr. Shontell was prominent in politics as a member of the Republican party until the last campaign when he became affiliated with the Progressives. He was elected to the state senate in 1900. He was a candidate for the nomination as councillor against Dr. Henry W. Boutwell. Mr. Shontell is now moderator in ward 4.

Name New Warden

Another important step taken by the governor and council was the appointment of Charles H. Rowe of Concord as warden of the state prison to succeed Warden H. K. W. Scott. Mr. Rowe is now deputy marshal of the Concord police force, an office he has held for the past four years. He has been connected with the Concord police department for the last 18 years. Charges of alleged cruelty to prisoners preferred against Warden Scott last winter by a Concord clergyman were officially investigated and it was not generally known that he was to be succeeded. Warden Scott has been credited with the introduction of several reforms in the prison management.

Warden Scott is a native of Laconia. He was appointed warden of the state prison Oct. 10, 1905, succeeding Charles E. Cox. The appointment became effective Dec. 1, 1905.

Gray in Portsmouth

Fred A. Gray, a Portsmouth business man, was appointed as the third member of the police commission of that city. Rev. Whitman S. Bassett of Concord was appointed chaplain of the state prison and Dr. Fred B. Taylor of Concord, physician of the institution.

The following nominations were made: William H. Sawyer of Concord as special justice of the superior court, Frank W. Hamlin of Charlestown as justice of the Charlestown district police court, R. Morrison of Newbury as justice of the Charlestown district police court, Francis W. Johnson as justice of the Clarendon district police court, and Daniel W. Campbell of the Canaan district police court. The resignation of Judge William A. Blumner of Laconia as special justice of the superior court was accepted to take effect Dec. 12.

SEE IF THE CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

Mother! Don't hesitate! If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

INTERNATIONAL SPY BUREAU

The Swiss authorities after a long investigation as the result of complaints made by a number of governments have discovered an extensive and cleverly organized international military espionage bureau here. The bureau, it is alleged, was conducted by a French ex-army captain named Langster, and yesterday he was ordered expelled from Switzerland. The expulsion order places Langster in an extraordinary dilemma as it is asserted the moment he crosses any of the four frontiers—the French, German, Austrian or Italian—he will be placed under arrest.

SAILOR MADE DARING RESCUE OF COMRADE

F. E. Matteau Fell into River From Ferry and His Life Was Saved
By Charles Zebley.

Passengers on the seven o'clock
Boardman ferry, on Friday morning, witnessed as daring a rescue as has been seen on this river for some time.

One of the passengers was F. E. Matteau, of the U. S. S. Des Moines, returning from a shore liberty. He was standing on the stern of the boat, and when it swung to make the landing it caught an eddy and Matteau was shaken off his balance and fell overboard. There was a strong tide running and the chilled water soon had him helpless and he was in great danger of his life.

Charles Zebley, an ordinary seaman on the Des Moines, was on the boat and as soon as he saw that Matteau could not swim he pulled off his coat and after a game fight he held Matteau up until the boat could be worked around to them and they were both hauled aboard.

Matteau had swallowed a great quantity of water and he was unconscious when brought ashore and after being rolled to clear his lungs of the water he was taken to the ship on a stretcher and was a sick man all day. Zebley was pretty well used up from his fight and he was confined to the hospital all day. The passengers and the most of them have seen rescue before, are proud of Zebley's courage and clever work in saving Matteau's life.

BOSTON YARD WANTS TO BUILD A SHIP

Boston, Nov. 27.—Under the slogan "Build a Ship in Boston," the Boston Pattern Makers' Association of Boston and vicinity last night adopted resolutions calling upon all interested citizens to join with it to unite all the forces and to urge upon the Navy department at Washington the assignment of such work to Boston.

A committee was appointed by the association to extend an invitation to all business organizations, improvement societies, boards of trade, trade unions and city and state governments to appoint delegates to meet with this committee in a conference and lay out a campaign that will unite all their interests, and through their representatives in Congress and Senators, convince the Navy department that a ship should be built in Boston.

Attention is called to the fact that Congress has appropriated $1,000,000 for the building of a supply ship and that the Navy department has not yet awarded the contract for the work. The Pattern Makers' Association believes this ship should be built in Boston.

VETERAN FIREMEN MAKE BIG SUCCESS OF ANNUAL BALL

The eighth annual concert and dance of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's Association, was held on Wednesday evening at Freeman's hall, and it was a great success. The Veterans made a great success of everything the tackle and last evening's entertainment was no exception to the rule.

The Veterans met in uniform at their headquarters on Maplewood avenue and headed by their Peerless Drum Corps, they marched through the city to the hall.

At eight o'clock the Hay's Orchestra gave an excellent concert and at nine o'clock the dancers gathered for the grand march. This was led by Mr. James Davidson and Miss Evelyn Nell, and followed by the members in uniform and others in the number of 115.

General dancing then followed until two o'clock and it was a very merry gathering of young people. The most modern of the fancy dances were indulged in, the tango, hesitation waltz, one step etc. were much in evidence.

The following was the list of dances and the officers:

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is the Best Laxative in 3,000 Years

Spencer Kellogg & Sons of Buffalo, oil refiners have succeeded in taking the offensive taste and smell out of castor oil.

The Kellogg's have done what chemists have tried to do and failed for 3,000 years.

Doctors recommend Castor Oil as the simplest, safest, and best laxative. Every household will use it often now that it is tasteless.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is pure, clear, refined castor oil, and so entirely without taste that children take it easily.

This perfect laxative is now on sale in all drug stores. Order Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil by name, to distinguish it from various mixed and flavored castor oils, which are not tasteless. The trade mark is on every label—a green castor leaf bearing the signature—Kellogg's 3 1/2 and 10c sizes.

TO BUILD UNDER WATER COAL STORAGE

Washington, Nov. 27.—Immediate construction in San Francisco of an under water coal storage plant of from 200,000 to 300,000 tons capacity, to meet fuel demands of the navy when the Panama Canal is opened, is recommended by Paymaster General T. J. Cowie, of the navy, in his annual report, made public today.

"Particular attention is invited," the report says, "to the lack of facilities for storing and handling coal on the Pacific coast, particularly at San Francisco, which is about five thousand miles from the base of supply. Available facilities are utterly inadequate to meet the demand which will be made upon the opening of the Panama Canal."

The Paymaster General thinks the proposed plant should be so located that it can be readily doubled and so constructed that it can receive shipments both by water and rail. "The increased mobility of the fleet," he says, "makes increased storage facilities at this point absolutely imperative."

Paymaster General Cowie added that as yet no definite report can be made with reference to the Alaska coal fields as a source for navy fuel.

GRACE GEORGE

In a New Comedy Follows "Bought and Paid For" at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, Next Week.

An announcement of unusual theatrical interest and importance is the news from the William A. Brady's all in New York that Grace George is to begin a two weeks' engagement at the Majestic Theatre, next Monday, Dec. 1st, following "Bought and Paid For," which is on its last week in Boston.

Miss George will offer for the delight of Boston audiences, among whom she is a great favorite, a new and brilliant comedy of smart people by Avery Hopwood, entitled "Miss Jenny O'Jones."

Both star and author, whose many successes have made them famous in this country and abroad, have achieved in "Miss Jenny O'Jones" is it said, individual triumphs, which are both gratifying and assuring to Boston people who will see not only one of the latest but one of the most popular dramatic productions of the current season.

In "Miss Jenny O'Jones," Miss George finds abundant opportunity to reveal her manifold powers as a comedienne, which, combined with her charming personality, have won for her a deep and affectionate regard among Boston people.

Although Miss George has not been seen in Boston for several years her playing in "A Woman's Way" and "Divorcens" will be remembered as the height of artistry and a rare treat to playgoers.

Her recent appearance in J. M. Barrie's play, "Half an Hour" at the Lyceum Theatre in New York was hailed by the reviewers as the dramatic feat of this season.

"Miss Jenny O'Jones" equals, report has it, Mr. Hopwood's biggest hits of former seasons, including "Nobody's Widow," "Seven Days" and "Clothes."

Miss George's company will include Julian L. Strange and William Morris.

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—THE NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave in most cases, little to be desired."—Albert B. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ. April 23, 1912.

SAILORS MAKE GREAT IMPRESSION IN FRANCE

Villefranche, Nov. 27.—Official circles both French and American, are tonight enthusiastically discussing a story told by General Canibillet, commanding the land forces at Nice, at the reception to the American naval officers at Nice this afternoon which illustrates the exemplary behavior of the American bluejackets and the excellent impression they have made everywhere in France.

General Canibillet said he entered one of the largest cafes in Nice two nights ago. Eighty American seamen were seated at tables which had been engaged in a body. The band played "The Star Spangled Banner," and every one arose. Then at the close they threw their hats in the air as one man and shouted, "Vive la France!"

"I never was so touched in my life," said the general, "and today I heard of a similar incident in a tram. Seven American bluejackets occupied adjoining seats when three women entered. All rose like men at drill, while the natives remained seated."

"I am simply delighted at the reports of the behavior of your enthusiastic men."

"These reports are fully borne out by the proprietors of hotels and cafes in Nice and other towns on the coast. I talked with several proprietors today and none had anything but the highest praise for the American seamen. One told me a better class of men never entered his place."

Lieutenants Noyes and McKinney returned from their trip to Italy today.

Garrison of Nice Gives Reception at Cercle Militaire, Decorated for the Occasion.

Nice, Nov. 27.—Officers of the garrison here gave a reception to the American naval officers this afternoon at the Cercle Militaire, which was decorated with the Stars and Stripes.

Other French officers present were Generals Sabatte and Jacquin, Colonels Guiter, Bassenne, Pelletier, De Chambray and Delteil, Navy Captain Rihoult, Lieutenant Colonels Nuyens, Plessey, Muller, De Guette, Gray and Ross, and Military Superintendent Deved.

The president of the club welcomed a party of American officers, with Mr. A. de July, prefect of the Department of the Alpes Maritimes, Mr. Bonafay, Mr. Sibour, adjutant of the Mayor, and Mr. Gilbert, municipal councillor.

General Canibillet made a speech in which he lauded the American navy.

Other sporting events will also take place. Captain Van Duzer has detailed several officers to organize these sports.

Edison Players Off to Florida

A large party of friends saw them off and very thoughtfully hoped they would not be smothered or that they would not be frozen to death. Through the courtesy of Mr. Plimpton, each of the ladies found a great bunch of carnations in her stateroom.

Henry Davidson and William Forsythe will spin the reels and a complete complement of scene painters, carpenters and property men has also been included in the party. Jacksonville will be the headquarters from which trips will be made to various points of interest. The company will remain in Florida all winter and in view of the fact that Williams and Davidson are recognized as being the foremost directors in their respective lines, we can expect some excellent pictures from them.

Mary Fuller received word from the Colonial Theatre, Buffalo, that she had won the popularity contest conducted by that theatre. The experience is by no means a new one to Mary as she has won many of them, but she is always as delighted as a school girl over a new mackinaw when she hears of her laurels being placed upon her fair brow.

"You don't know what it means to me to have such a tangible expression of appreciation. My photoplays do not have the applause of an audience to guide us and inspire us, so we do not know whether the public likes us or not unless we are told in some such way. When a film in which I am appearing is released, I frequently wonder whether that particular role is going to please my Boston friends better than my El Paso friends or vice versa. It is a tremendous task to try to please the whole world if once so that is why I work, work, work."

Yale Boss started the native at the Edison Studio by appearing in long trousers last week. Yale has been "the clever Edison boy" for so long that nobody realized that he had really grown up until he made his "grand entrance." He was greeted with a howl of glee by the boys who made a rush for him but Yale made a running dive down into the cellar where he found a safe retreat until assured by big George Loxey that the precious trousers would be recovered intact.

ANOTHER GRANT BECOMES A SOLDIER

New York, Nov. 27.—Chapman Grant, a grandson of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, has resigned a position in the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences to become a soldier. Early in December he will leave for Texas to become second lieutenant in the 14th United States Cavalry.

Discussing his resignation which was announced Wednesday Grant said his decision to join the army at this time had been prompted by a possibility that he would see active service in Mexico. The 14th is doing duty along the Mexican border.

"I merely thought that there might be a war," said the youth, the son of Jesse R. Grant, youngest son of the late General and President. "If there should be a war I want to be in it."

"I suppose this business of becoming a soldier might become a family matter, and that it is a natural thing to expect of me. But as far as the matter of my appointment at this particular time goes, I have no inside information as to the likelihood of war. In a way, I am taking a chance on it. But I guess I would have gone into the army any way, war or no war."

Chapman Grant was graduated from Williams College in 1910. He has been curator of entomology at the Children's Museum of the Brooklyn Institute since Sept. 1. He received his commission as second lieutenant as a successful competitor in examinations last July for the appointment of civilians to the army.

PLANTING OF TULIP BUDS

The first and most important requisite in the successful growing of tulips is a light and fertile soil, says a writer in the Rural New Yorker, in giving suggestions on bulb culture. True these bulbs can be grown in a way in moderately rich soil, but it is certain that they cannot be had in anything like that proper perfection when cultivated in this manner.

A common practice is to follow the bedding plants with the bulbs and this is a very good plan. If the bulbs are well manured in the spring when planted it is scarcely necessary to fertilize again for tulips, as by this time the manure applied in the spring is decomposed and in excellent condition to be taken up readily by plant life. If not, the soil, that the bulbs are to go in, should receive a heavy coat of well rotted manure and be dug thoroughly and deeply. In this operation care should be taken that the earth be well broken up and all the stones removed.

The ideal time for planting is about the middle of October. Beds of tulips that are planted uniformly and with respect to color and shading, always make a better appearance than one put in without proper regard for these details. Seven or eight inches apart, the bulbs should be put in three to five inches in depth. A good way to

Change in Examinations

The navy department has issued an order directing that hereafter candidates for the navy academy must be examined physically before they receive their mental examination.

The physical examination will be held as near as possible to the date of the candidate. The order provides that as soon as a candidate is notified of his appointment as a candidate for the Naval Academy, he will proceed to the nearest navy yard or nearest recruiting station and there be examined by the attending medical officer.

The order is generally approved by many candidates who are not physically qualified for the service and thus relieve the examinations of time and money necessary for the preparation of the mental examination.
